Executive Arrives from Santa Fe on Limited With Adjutant General Brooks and Officers; Will Be Here to Greet Ex-President.

Governor William J. Mills, Adjutant General Brooks and several members of the executive staff arrived in the city on the limited today and will remain here to greet Mr. Roosevelt and attend the funeral services.

In the party besides the governor and adjutant general were Colonel M. M. Padgett of Las Vegas, Jose D. Sena of Santa Fe and Elmer E. Strickler of Raton.

ENGLISH WOMEN OBJECT

Harem Skirt Is Instantly Disapproved When It Appears in London Shops.

London, March 15.—Already the funeral knell of the trouser skirt has hurriedly sounded through the salons of the West End dressmakers, and the story of its brief, inglorious career adds but one more chapter to the rapidly growing volume of Paris fashions that have failed to flourish when transplanted to English soil.

Skill and ingenuity of the first order had been put into the cleverly organized campaigns for popularizing the new type of dress. Months ago there came the inspired whisper of "harem" fashions, and those responsible for the new trend in dress contrived—as a first move—to impart something of the mystery and glamour of the east to the coming fashions, the actual details of which were, however, discreetly withheld.

At last the time was ripe for the new creations to be launched, and then Paris boldly proclaimed the fashion of the trouser skirt for the spring and summer of 1911. Tailored walking gown, smart afternoon frock, and elaborate evening toilet bore the unmistakable impress of the Turkish influence. One and all of them, when they arrived in London, were hailed with a chorus of unanimous disapproval.

This instantaneous and ignominious collapse of the fashion, which Paris had announced as the special novelty of the season, and the unequivocal refusal of the English women to countenance a mode which had neither beauty nor utility to command it, are significant in the light of recent events.

WHAT IS A NEGRO?

Judge Rules That Child With Taint of Negro Blood Should Be Classed as Negro.

Frankfort, Ky., March 15.—What is a negro within the meaning of the school laws of the state was determined by the court of appeals in a case from Pike county involving the right of children with one-sixteenth negro blood to attend a white school. The court says that children wholly or in part of negro blood are negroes and may not attend a white school. The case was that of Troy Mullins and others against Edmond Belcher, trustee of School District No. 28, 16 Pike county. The Pike circuit court was affirmed.

Troy Mullins and others, by their guardian sued to enjoin the trustees of the school from preventing the children from attending school. The trustees defended the suit on the ground that the children were negroes and therefore could not attend the school, which was for white children only. The trial judge found that the children had one-sixteenth negro blood and therefore were colored children within the meaning of the law. The court here says that the question does not depend upon the personal appearance of the children but comes down, in this trial analysis, to whether or not the children have or have not an "appreciable admixture of negro blood." In conclusion the court says:

"As the makers of the constitution did not undertake to define the words 'colored children' as employed in Section 187 of the constitution, we conclude that these words were used in their ordinary and general sense and that they include all children wholly or in part of negro blood or having an appreciable admixture thereof."

WHEN IS A CONSTABLE NOT A CONSTABLE?

Geronimo Ortiz Is Charged With "Personating" an Officer, but He Kept Order at a Dance Just the Same.

What is a constable and a constable? Is it a question that the district courts of Valencia will have to settle in the solution of the case of Geronimo Ortiz, charged with personating an officer.

It appears that Ortiz resided in Valencia room, a justice of the peace in Valencia county, as a constable, together with instructions to keep himself in a dance at San Richard and Mountain Inn, water and the majority of the new songs said dance was in progress.

Ortiz obeyed his instructions. When Andres Gallegos and others of his friends left it an appearance with Gallegos, who was outnumbered, disengaged the dancers and succeeded in preventing the breaking up of the dance by arresting Gallegos.

Gallegos then appeared before a grand jury, which promptly indicted Ortiz on the ground that the justice of the peace had no authority to commission constables.

The case was called in the district court at Los Lunas yesterday, but owing to the illness of Gallegos the trial was not held. Ortiz is free on a bond of $100.

WANTED--A HUSBAND

Only Daughter of the Kaiser Is of Marriages Age and Matchmakers Get Busy.

Berlin, March 15.—All the matchmakers in Germany—and Germany, according to Helene, is a country of matchmakers—are busily finding husbands for the Kaiser's coming child and only daughter, Princess Victoria Louise.

Princess Victoria Louise recently completed her eighteenth year. But it is not the marriageable age which has set the matchmakers talking, but the fact that the princess has suddenly and for some mysterious reason become extremely good looking.

The little Miss Princess—she is to be called, as always regarded at the least well favored of the Kaiser's seven children, only a year ago before she used to stare at her a typical gawky, rather untidy schoolgirl, with dark hair and an old fashioned hat. Everyone spoke of her as a child. Then one fine day she unexpectedly put up the dull hair, bought the latest Paris hat and in a wink transformed herself into a beauty. When she drives down the Linden in her English dog cart or appears dressed as a gallant Hussar at a military parade everyone finds her pretty, vivacious, frank looking, intelligent and a good enough wife for the best German prince that ever appeared outside a fairy tale.

The matchmakers would have no trouble finding a suitable husband except the case of the "Kaiser's princess," an ordinary one. But it is not the Kaiser, it appears, insists on his daughter's wedding only a German prince and the Kaiser's puts the still harder condition that the bridegroom must reside within easy reach of Berlin. In other words, the Kaiser's bride-to-be is separated from her only daughter.

The matchmakers affirm that the princess is likely to marry the eldest son and heir of the king of Saxony. This would satisfy one condition, at Dresden, the Saxon capital, is only a couple of hours from Berlin. The Saxon crown prince, who bears the sufficient name, Frederick August George Ferdinand Albert Charles Anton Marie Paul Marcel, is of suitable age having been born only a few months after the princess, and European news to thousands nearly as many women as old as themselves. Frederick August George... is a fine, smart looking lad, given to sports, and fond of accompanying his eagle father up Alpine snow peaks. He lately made a trip to the Zillertal, in Austria, and crossed a pass which he considered impossible in winter.

PRUDY MAWR GIRLS WORE HAREM SKIRTS

Liverpool Has Reinforced Concrete Building 16 Stories in Height.

Liverpool, March 15.—Twenty Bryn Mawr college girls are in disgrace because they insisted upon wearing a modification of the harem skirt. They have been compelled to remain in their rooms and have been informed that their exes will be returned to when Dean M. C. Thomas returns from her trip abroad.

The students were informed that they must not appear in public in the skirts they had ordered, but they resisted and were hooted by a crowd of youngsters.

LAND LEASED FOR GROWING CROP FOR CANNERY

Chairman Barth and Committee Take Decided Steps: Farmers Are Enthusiastic About Growing Tomatoes.

The committee who was in charge of the campaign for the canning crop in Valencia and Los Lunas immediately made up to the farmers concerning the proposed concrete cannery plant started this morning, that it would give the farmers the opportunity almost as well as securing that tomato grows a profitable crop and that the early season fruits may not be raised because of the fact that there was some scattered market here.

At Los Lunas the school house was turned into a temporary and crowded room such as a prison. At this place the school was addressed to Johnson, Bonham in Spanish and to County Superintendent A. B. Strain in English.

While at Los Lunas the Mayor Barth and Benjamin made arrangements for a house or offices in the neighborhood to be planted in tomatoes for the farmers and also made arrangements with a party who will tend the crop for them. There was no attempt to get money at this meeting but a meeting will be held at both places next Sunday afternoon at o'clock at which time decided steps will be taken.

The committee, owing to an accident in arrangements, did not reach Los Lunas until after most of the work was gone and failed those who were left just as they were leaving. They were addressed to Chairman Isaac Barth and were unanimous in condemning the opposition. Owing to the lateness of the meeting the real business of securing written contracts was postponed until the next meeting which is set for 3 o'clock next Sunday.

Chairman Barth says that no trouble will be found in securing the acreage and that double the required amount could be secured.

GREAT DANGER IN PORK

Government Bulletin Warns Those Who Eat It to Cook It Thoroughly.

Washington, March 15.—The department of agriculture has prepared a bulletin on "The Danger of Trichinosis from Eating Raw or Inadequately Cooked Pork," it says:

Cases of illness sometimes occur from eating uncooked or inadequately cooked pork which is infested with a microscopic parasite commonly known as trichina or fleshworm, the scientific name being trichinella spiralis. An average of 1 or 2 percent of the hogs slaughtered in the United States are infested with this parasite. When transmitted to human beings trichinosis may cause serious illness, sometimes resulting in death. Out of about 15,000 cases of trichinosis recorded in medical literature, most of which occurred in Europe, 820 resulted fatally.

No method of inspection has yet been devised by which the presence or absence of trichinosis in pork can be determined with certainty, and the government meat inspection does not include inspection for this parasite. All persons are accordingly warned by the United States department of agriculture not to eat pork, or sausage containing pork, whether or not it has been inspected by federal, state, or municipal authorities, until after it has been thoroughly cooked.

A temperature of about 160 degrees Fahrenheit kills the parasite, therefore pork when properly cooked may be eaten without any danger of infection. If the pork should be cooked until it becomes white and is no longer red in color in all portions of the piece, at the center as well as near the surface. Dry salt pork, pickled pork and smoked pork previously salted or pickled, provided the curing is thorough, are practically safe so far as trichinosis is concerned, but as the thoroughness of the curing is not always certain, such meat should also be cooked before it is eaten.

A pamphlet giving information on the subject may be obtained on application to the secretary of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

PROUD OF SKYSCRAPER

Liverpool Has Reinforced Concrete Building 16 Stories in Height.

Liverpool, March 15.—There is now nearing completion here a skyscraper 529 feet high—the new offices of the Royal Liver Friendly Society by the river.

The new skyscraper is a remarkable building, including the twin turrets that form its apex; it has sixteen stories, each of a generous depth. From its main roof set the base of the turrets the nine-story cotton warehouses near the Prince's dock being very puny buildings, tall as they are in reality. There are no fewer than eighteen elevators in the building. They are worked by electricity, and the lift room is one of the sights of the building.

The structure is built on the reinforced concrete principle, and its foundations are some sixty feet below street level. It is to win distinction by having a clock larger than that of Westminster. There will be three faces on one turret and one face on another 300 feet away.

MAGNIFICENT CHURCH

Jesuit Fathers Will Construct Church in San Francisco After Historic Model.

San Francisco, March 15.—Funds have been left for the new Jesuit church at the northeast corner of Fulton street and Parker way, under a sun compass, and the site of nearly the whole city. As soon as practicable work will be commenced on the superstructure, for it is the desire of the Jesuit fathers to complete the building at the earliest possible date.

The building will extend from Fulton to McAllister street, its full length being 214 feet and its width 108 feet. A stately pile of the Italian temple, the church resembles the old one at Hayes street and Van Ness avenues, though even in grandeur and nobility less. It will extort in distinguished a purely classic design in which the true effect is realized in the facade with superimposed columns of Ionic and Corinthian columns alternating. There are five great doors set between columns and above them five windows likewise placed, and at each corner is a tower 224 feet high to the top of the cross.

The building will have a steel frame and brick walls with cement stucco on the exterior. It was first intended to have the church exterior in terra cotta or pressed brick, but the cost was prohibitive, and so to effect a saving of about $75,000 the church was adopted. A campanile of the northern Italian type will stand at the northeast corner, 200 feet from the building for the large bell, to indicate the vibration due to ringing.

The beautiful interior of old St. Ignatius church will be reproduced in the new edifice, though with some material changes in the design, which will add to the grandeur and adaptability of the church. There will be seating capacity for 1,500 persons within an area of 138 by 160 feet from the outer railing to the inner doors. An imposing portico leads to the vestibule of the church, off which will open the grand interior.

Elaboration of detail in the classic ornament is strikingly carried out in ceiling, entablature, columns and walls. Two rows of columns set apart the oblong and mark the line of the nave without obstructing a view of the altar from the side pews. Eight bays will be placed along each side for confessionals and side altars. There will be seven altars, three in front and two on each side. In the rear of the sanctuary there will be three arched. The sanctuary will be large in keeping with the proportions of the church and its chief feature will be the semi-circular back wall in front of which will stand a row of columns rising to the entablature.

The cost of the building when completed will be $300,000. The steel frame alone costs $72,500.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS. PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50¢.
